The Korowai Tribe

It's thought that until 1970, the mysterious Korowai tribe of south eastern Papua, Indonesia, New Guinea, were unaware of the existence of any other people on earth.

Living as remotely as they do – perched up in the canopy of the least explored jungles in the world – it's quite plausible.

The tribe are known for their distinctive treehouses that tower over the jungle on spindly stilts, originally designed to avoid attacks from rival clans.

As the worlds most organic and proficient treehouses builders, what better name for our treehouse company!

Delivering world class design and craftsmanship for you and your project.

We build treehouses to suit your requirements, both on the ground and in and around the trees. Get in touch today to discuss your exciting project with us.

We have vast experience both in the domestic and commercial markets, specialising in the UK glamping and tourism industries, having built many of the treehouses around the UK currently available for that unique staycation.

Each time their work has been of the highest standard. In particular, “ we have found their approach to project management, cost and craftsmanship quite exemplary. ”
